DIRECTIONS TO THE T.J. WATSON RESEARCH CENTER

By Train
Take Metro-North from Grand Central Terminal to either the Tarrytown or Hawthorne stations. Taxis are available at both stations to take you to the Watson Center. (Drivers should know the way, but it might be prudent to take a copy of the driving directions, below.)

• A train from Grand Central leaves New York at 7:50AM and arrives in Hawthorne at 8:41AM
• A train from Grand Central leaves New York at 7:44AM and arrives in Tarrytown at 8:32AM

For full schedules and fares, please visit the Metro-North website: http://as0.mta.info/mnr/schedules/sched_form.cfm.

By Car (from Manhattan)
Henry Hudson Parkway north, which becomes Saw Mill River Parkway. Continue on Saw Mill River Parkway north to Exit 25 Hawthorne/9A. At the light, make a right. Travel south on 9A and make a left onto Skyline Drive (there is a brown IBM sign at the entrance to Skyline Drive).

Parking
IBM assures us that there is ample free parking at the Watson Research Center. You can park anywhere in the visitor parking area in front of the IBM building.

Meeting Location
Once at the Watson Research Center, you should proceed to the lobby entrance (away from Rte. 9). The receptionist in the lobby will provide a name badge and the meeting room location. (It would be helpful if everyone would have a photo ID available for building security.)
